

SLIDE OUTLINE · GRADES 6-8 · 8 SLIDES

Private by design

An editable PowerPoint version of these slides is included in the lesson pack.

Private by design

- You choose your audience
- Today: audit a fictional student's profile
- Then: fix the settings and check your own

SLIDE 1 · SPEAKER NOTES

Set a calm tone. Make clear that no one will be asked to show their own accounts. Jordan is fictional, so students can be honest about what they notice.

Your digital footprint

- What you post
- What other people post about you
- What apps collect in the background, like location

SLIDE 2 · SPEAKER NOTES

Ask for one example of each. Point out that the second category, what others post about you, is why the ask-first rule matters for everyone.

Who can see where you are?

- Location sharing shows a live map to the people on your list
- Safest: off, or a few people you know in real life
- A parent or guardian should know who is on the list

SLIDE 3 · SPEAKER NOTES

Do not shame students who use location sharing with family. The goal is a short, chosen list, not hundreds of followers.

Photo clues

- House numbers and street signs
- School logos, jerseys and ID badges
- Bus numbers and local landmarks
- Some cameras save location inside the photo file

SLIDE 4 · SPEAKER NOTES

Ask students to think about a photo they took this week. Would any of these show up in the background? Turning off camera location tagging is a quick fix.

What a screenshot does

- Disappearing messages disappear from the app, not from screens
- Anyone can screenshot or film a screen
- Once sent, you lose control of it

SLIDE 5 · SPEAKER NOTES

Connect to the warm-up. A screenshot can be forwarded forever. That is true for your messages and for other people's messages you hold.

Other people's information: ask first

- Ask before you post or forward someone's photo, video, chat or number
- A no is a full answer
- Take it down if they ask later

SLIDE 6 · SPEAKER NOTES

Mention in one sentence what your school's conduct policy says about posting others without permission. Keep it informational, not threatening.

Privacy audit: Jordan's profile

- Highlight every clue a stranger could use
- For each item: name the risk and the exact fix
- 'Be careful' is not a fix

SLIDE 7 · SPEAKER NOTES

Give 3 minutes of silent highlighting, then 8 minutes of group work. Push for named settings: private account, location off, message requests, tag review.

Fix it and tell someone

- Private account, nickname, short bio
- Location off or a short list
- Message and tag controls on
- Something shared got passed around? Tell a trusted adult or the counselor

SLIDE 8 · SPEAKER NOTES

Point to the counselor's name on the board. Nobody gets in trouble for asking for help. Hand out the check-up worksheet and family sheet.
